

Our Birthday.

With this issue, the INTERIOR JOURNAL commences its sixth volume. Started under the adverse conviction of nearly every one that a paper could not exist in Stanford for more than six months or a year, it has braved the storm, and now on its sixth birthday makes a bow to the public in as good a financial condition and with better prospects than ever before. We shall in a short time set up a power press and make other improvements in our office as will keep us abreast with the improved tendency of the age. We want our friends to continue to give us their support and urge their neighbors and friends to do likewise. It is our intention in the future as in the past, to give you a good paper, in fact, we hope to improve each week. Our undivided attention to the paper will be given, and we promise that all who encourage us will have no cause for regret.

The Eight to Seven game is well nigh ended. Its infamous decisions with regard to Florida and Louisiana have caused every one to lose interest or feel any surprise or disappointment at its subsequent decision. Since our last issue Oregon and South Carolina have been stolen for Hayes, and the doubts that may have been cherished that he would be declared elected, have vanished. In each case of a doubtful State, the force of going through an argument and trial has been enacted, then the predetermined Radical majority take time for deliberation, and decide as it has ever been intended they should decide—for Hayes, and against the first principle of the right and the Constitution. There is some desire on the part of the Democratic leaders to filibuster and prevent the finishing of the count in time to save Rutherford, but it is a bad policy. The only way now is to grin and endure what they have, by a lack of sense and forethought, been led into, and wait for time to prove the justice of our cause. Having played their part exceedingly well in the tragedy now nearly ended, the curtain will fall on the ignominious Eight, and they will go down to history as the basest and most perfidious partisans that ever disgraced a country!

Last Friday night, at 12 o'clock, as the passenger train on the Louisville and Cincinnati Short Line, was clashing along at its usual fast speed, it was thrown from the track by an open switch at Beard's Station, some fifteen miles beyond Louisville, and the whole train, with the exception of the engine and rear sleeping car precipitated down an embankment. We were on board, and asleep in the car that did not go over, and were awakened by the bouncing of our car over the ties. The horrible knowledge that we were off the track—that in a few seconds we might be at the bottom of a ravine dashed and mangled flashed with a vivid suddenness through our mind. This agonizing suspense did not last long, for the forward cars soon went over with a crash, bringing our car to a sudden standstill. Immediately every one was up and going at once without considering the order of his going. Many flags of true fluttered in the rear, but when it was found that no one was hurt seriously, the first paroxysm of fright changed to a sense of the ludicrous and the balance of the night was spent in laughing over the scene, telling jokes, &c. Two Pullman sleeping cars were badly damaged, as also the Express car and tender. After eight hours delay our solitary coach was taken to Louisville just in time for us to make connection on the L. & N.

RAILROADS.—While in Cincinnati last week we were pleased to meet Col. W. A. Gunn, formerly Chief Engineer of the Cincinnati Southern but now connected with the Kentucky Central. Mr. Gunn was about to leave with a corps of Engineers to re-survey and estimate the probable cost of extending that road to Knoxville. Three months or more will likely be consumed in this preliminary work, after which it is supposed active work will commence on it. The Kentucky Central is almost forced to this extension, as with its present terminus (Lexington) it cannot compete with the Cincinnati Southern.

It has just been discovered in Nova Scotia, that all the marriages, commissions, &c., entered into since 1869, are null and void, because the government has been using a seal that was ordered by the Imperial Government to be returned then. We know a good many married men in this country that would like for somebody to discover that our government had been using the wrong seal and that they might have a chance to get out of their scrapes without a suit for divorce.

R. B. (short for Returning Board) Hayes, will be inaugurated, not by the grace of God or the grace of over a million of white voters, but by the grace of the ignominious and perjured Supreme Judge, Jo Bradley. This Bradley name is a bad one any way.

LATEST NEWS.—Up to our latest advice the count had proceeded as far as Vermont. The President of the Senate stated that he had received only one set of certificates for that State, and on Congressman Hewitt offering to hand him another set, he refused to receive them, which created great indignation on the part of the Democrats, and much confusion in the House. The probability is, that the count was completed last night, and the result proclaimed. The country will breathe freer now that the great National Returning Board is a thing of the past. The Nicholls government of Louisiana is to be recognized, and troops withdrawn immediately from the State. Ex-Governor Joseph Johnston, of Virginia, died yesterday, in the 92nd year of his age. Hayes has gone to Washington, but will not resign his gubernatorial position until the last moment.

The Courier-Journal's Washington correspondent, who is usually well informed, gives the following as the Cabinet under Hayes' administration: Evans, Secretary of State.

John Sherman, Secretary of the Treasury.

Wayne McVagh, of Pennsylvania, Attorney General.

Hale, of Maine, Secretary of the Navy.

Alcorn, of Mississippi, Interior Department.

Joshua Hill, of Georgia, Post Master General.

It is believed that John Sherman will be the master spirit of the administration.

From that excellent and almost indispensable paper to railroad men, The Gazette, (published in New York and Chicago,) we learn that during the month of January there were on all the railroads in the United States 147 accidents, whereby 14 people were killed, and 148 injured. The number of accidents are more than double those for a similar period of last year, and as railroad accidents continue to increase, it seems that there is a correspondingly increase of carelessness. A great many of these accidents might be avoided, and if railroad companies were held to a stricter account, greater care and fewer accidents would be the result.

There is a likelihood that a called session of Congress to convene in May, will be necessary to pass several appropriation bills that will of necessity, go over during the present session. Should this be the case, the present Speakers time expiring, the House will have to choose between the same two, Randall and Saylor, for the Speakership. In view of the fact, the House Committee on Rules has decided to present a bill authorizing the Clerk of the House to act as Speaker till the House is organized. If this bill is passed it will give the Democrats a decided advantage.

A RESOLUTION was offered in the House, declaring that it be the sense of Congress that Hampton and Nicholls are respectively the lawfully elected heads of the government in their States. It required a two-thirds vote to carry it, but the Radicals voted "nay" in a body, and it was lost by a vote of 127 to 85. This amounts to nothing more than to show the devilish spirit that animates the party of "divine origin." These Governors are bound to be recognized or the people of those States will see to it.

The Frankfort Yeoman and other Democratic papers that have kept a rooster constantly in their columns since the election, had better lay them aside now. If we have anything in God Almighty's world to crow over we would like to know it. Chanted and robbed out of our undebated rights, led into compromise with a band of thieves, we would suggest that a more fitting emblem now would be to turn the column-rollers upside down, and keep them so till an honest election is held in 1880.

A BILL providing for filling the Presidency in the case of a failure to elect or in case of the death of the President of the Senate, the death of the Speaker of the House, or all these cases combined, has passed the House. It declares that should such contingencies arise, the Secretary of State shall act as President during the interregnum. The probability is that the Bill will pass the Senate also, as a Republican is destined to fill the bill in the instance that may arise in a few days.

The old Courier-Journal building in Louisville has been transformed into an imposing temple for the grand conservatory 32d degree of ancient and accepted Masons, and as such was dedicated on Monday evening. Col. W. Larue Thomas, of Danville, Grand Generalissimo of the Grand Commandery of Kentucky, assisted in the ceremonies.

TILDEN and Hendricks were elected President and Vice President by over a million majority of the white voters, and yet those voters stand with their hands in their pockets and see a base usurper named Hayes, inaugurated. Donn Platt was right.

GRANT will get the last one of them out before he is himself hustled out. Another Bristow appointee, C. C. Adams, of Kentucky, who held a position in the Treasury, is Ulises' last removal.

It has for some time been a matter of deep concern with us what would become of our poor, persecuted Grant after he was kicked down and out, and off from bribes and that $50,000 per year. But it is all right now, the old man 'll be taken care of. He is going to be president of a new National Bank in New York, with a capital of Twenty Millions. That is, they say he will, and 'they' ought to know.

The speech of Hon. Henry Waterson, opposing any obstruction to the finishing of the count before the Tribunal is reproduced in full in yesterday's Courier-Journal. Like all of his efforts, it is grand and patriotic, and should be carefully and thoughtfully read.

The post master of the moral city of Chicago, has defaulted to the amount of many thousands. The Moody and Sankey business don't have much effect on the average Radical Postmaster.

When Hayes accepted the nomination of his party, he made some exceedingly fair promises to the South. It is now left to us to wait and hope that he will fulfill them!

The Medical College at Louisville has just turned out 145 young doctors, another College at Cincinnati 22, and another at New York 157. Good Lord deliver us.

THE thing is dead certain now. Mrs. Hayes has been to Cincinnati and bought her White House outfit—and that settles it.

GARRARD COUNTY NEWS.

Lancaster.

FEBRUARY 28, 1877.

"Yes—the die is cast." The political astrologer casts the National horoscope and sees therein a fearful picture, all shade and no light. Pictures spread upon the patriotic canvas by artists in whose eyes the fair and beautiful colors of peaceful landscapes refuse to blend, but leave instead, upon the painted brush, a muddy mass of portentous hue. Certain prophecies foretell the disintegration of the Democratic party. They boastfully claim that the tangled meshes of a clumsy policy can never be successfully re-wound. That the thread must be broken at each impending knot; and every spinster of the distaff, whether domestic or political, knows what a calamity that is. Every child who has held his mother's yarn through an interminable winding remembers the occasional disaster of a "lost end." Let us hope that the national skein will have the lines fall into pleasant places, and that the deplorable web of disappointment and ignominy may not necessarily involve a crash of ruin. When the Muse had birth it is highly probable that they were not ushered upon a political arena; and at this late day "Clio" has no ambition to be considered "strong-minded." But she might be pardoned for occasionally wandering from the chimney corner to scan a broad sky whose clouds or sunshine affect alike the weak and the mighty.

The last week of Circuit Court is upon us, and we are having both day and night sessions. An important will case has been decided by the will being. Sent out of eight of the heirs of the late Thompson M. Arnold were the contestants. A colored boy was condemned to the Penitentiary for burglary. The case of G. C. Kennedy, Esq., has been deferred till the 13th day of the August Circuit Court, at which time Mr. Jacobs, of Danville, will preside as Judge. Owing to several considerations, a change of venue was demanded, and a proposition to remove the case to Boyle, under contemplation. The want of a proper jail building at that point, determined the authorities to make no change. The services of a night guard around the Lancaster jail indicates that fears are entertained for the prisoner's safety, either from his friends or his enemies; and justice is making an effort not to be defrauded. Meanwhile, those interested in the unhappy man do all in their power to cheer his weary hours.

In view of the general and particular corruption of the glorious nineteenth, a close observer already says:

"In ancient story we are told
That Minerva, when engaged in gold,
But we, today, a stranger thing behold—
Men turn to anything when touched with gold."

The photographs of the Electoral Tribunal are before us. Physiognomy is a curious and interesting study, more especially when the face to facial expression is at hand in the printed thoughts and deeds of the subject under examination.

On Sunday Ed. J. L. Allen exchanged pulpits with Mr. Deewe, of Pleasant Grove. The latter chose for his subject, Sin—which he defined to mean, technically, "missing the mark." The expression was common in target-shooting, and the metaphor comes down to us of full significance. The speaker made many good points in his sermon, and employed impressive illustrations.

At the Presbyterian church Dr. Hays delivered a fine discourse, preparatory to administering the Lord's Supper. The services of services commenced on Saturday night.

The Stanford Journal once said a good thing that went to the hearts of the groaning multitude. This was to the effect that the colored revival which began at the close of the war, would continue through this week! We are sorry to add that our share of this public visitation is still upon us in all its colored glory. Look out for truant sinners and unprotected clankers with their feathered clans.

A dove ventured forth from his winter quarters the other day. The cruel blasts of Saturday and Sunday have given way to sunshine cheerful that early birds lift up their songs of triumph over the unwary worm, and congenial smiles are entwined to the faces so lately clouded by winter's relentless grasp.

There were two funerals in town on the 23d. The remains of E. D. Kennedy were conducted to the tomb by the Royal Arch Masons, members of the bar, and friends. Court was adjourned pro tem.

Spring fashions are all in the elongated, tight-fitting style, with a plentiful collection of furberies at the bottom of the dress. Bonnets are bonny lace bonnets, and cannot pass for hats any longer. Clio.

FROM GOV. HAYES.

The Honest Patriot Speaks Out!

CRAB ORCHARD, KY., Feb. 28, 1877.

Fellow-Citizens of the United States of America:—You are a well aware that I was a candidate for the Presidency in 1876. You all know equally well that I was defeated at the polls at the November election, by the voice of the sovereigns of this Republic, the free voters of the nation. This defeat, which withered my political ambition, was not intended by the people as a personal rebuke to me, but it was intended, and is, a most scathing condemnation of the ruinous policy pursued by my predecessor for the last eight years. The people have spoken in a voice of thunder that reverberated from the Atlantic to the Pacific, that they would submit no longer to the fraud, robbery, perdition, corruption and outrageous plundering of the public treasury, at which our President has so long connived, if he has not actually engaged in sharing the spoils of a long-suffering and an outraged people.

I know that the dishonest element of my party says that I was elected in November, but there is scarcely a boy ten years of age in this broad land who does not know to the contrary. It is well known that a majority of the States stamped the heel of condemnation upon my party policy, a majority of thirty-six of the Electoral College was against my party's principles, but higher and greater, and more blasting still a majority of more than two hundred and sixty thousand freemen of this Republic, have spoken in tones which cannot be misunderstood, that they did not want me to be their President.

I know that the dishonest element of my party says that the Republican voters of the South were intimidated. But three great oaths would scarce make that be believed. The country knows that our Attorney General, Taft, employed, and sent South, at the expense of the Government, 11,614 United States Marshals, and two-thirds of the Army to protect the Republican voters, and to secure them in their elective franchise. But the dishonest element of my party says that the Returning Boards say I carried Louisiana, Florida and South Carolina. This is not the case, however. The grand old Palmetto State gave Tilden a majority of more than two thousand; Florida, though small and feeble in voice, cast a majority of ninety against me, and Louisiana shouted across the breadth of the Continent to the great Lakes of the North, more than eight thousand majority for Tilden. But the dishonest element of my party says, that at a evil hour and unguarded moment, the Congress of the United States attempted to compromise away the rights of the people, and the Commission by a strict party vote, refused to unseal from its nesting den of corruption, the unprecedented frauds of the Returning Boards, and that, therefore, I am elected. But this is something you can never make the people believe. The people all know that a majority of the Commission were blind partisans, and heaved right to the party lines. They know also, that the crime of three of those Judges, instead of being as white as the snow upon Mount Sinai, and as pure as the frozen gems that glitter upon its icy surface, is covered all over with foul blot, indelible stains, and reeking with infamy. The people have defeated me, and no number of corrupt Returning Boards, nor corrupt Judges, nor partisan Commissioners can undo what the people have done. Even Peter Chandler, of Crab Orchard, whom I intended as one of the Chief Officers of my administration, says he can not accept a nomination in an administration to which I never was elected. And John A. Allison, (of color), who aspired to the position of mail carrier from Crab Orchard, to the depot, says that he can not sully his proud escutcheon by holding an official position under an administration the people have so loudly condemned. So, under the circumstances, gentlemen, you can not blame me for retiring to the shades of private life, whither the people have sent me, and allow the man whom a majority of the States, a majority of the Electors, and an overwhelming majority of the people have said they desire to be their President, to be installed.

Should I accept an office to which I was not elected, though I would hold a high official station, I should feel like a thief and a robber, and know that all honest men, and all nations were pointing at me the slow, unmoving finger of scorn and derision.

Therefore, I cannot, I will not, I dare not, accept an office the people are unwilling for me to hold. Respectfully, yours,
RUTHERFORD B. HAYES,
By his ATTORNEYS,
FOUNTAIN F. BOBBITT.

A Card.

Editor Interior Journal:

Please publish the statement herewith inserted, from the County Attorney of this county, setting forth his reasons for objecting to proceeding with the examination of a charge of homicide before me, as one of the Associate Justices presiding in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Martin. It is scarcely necessary to inform an habitual observer of proceedings in Courts of Justice of any grade, that the objection to a Commonwealth's officer by an officer of the Commonwealth, is not only without precedent, but without any warrant of authority.

"Commonwealth vs. Wm. Martin—Feb. 27, 77.—The County Attorney at his arrival in Stanford, this morning, was approached with the suggestion, that as one of the members constituting the Examining Court, M. D. Hughes, was the law student of one of the leading counsel for the defense, Hon. M. C. Sawyer, it would not be proper and right for him to sit in the case. Upon which, the County Attorney (having no objections whatever, nor did associate counsel, to said Hughes composing part of the Court of Investigation) indicated to said Hughes, the suggestion above referred to, and it was further suggested that said Hughes' brother had killed a man, upon which it being intimated to said Hughes, he wishing that the fountain of Justice should not only be pure, but free from suspicion, retired from the case."

FOUNTAIN F. BOBBITT, CITY ATT'Y.

I attach no blame to the counsel for the Commonwealth or the relatives of the deceased, but the one or two who made the "suggestions" referred to, are either very ignorant, or have but little confidence in my honor and integrity as an officer. If the first, I pity them, if the second, I call for the proof as to one instance in which I have failed to do my duty. I have held my humble office for only four months, during which time I have investigated charges against some twenty alleged criminals, having discharged but three out of that number—cases in which the evidence was wholly insufficient to justify holding over for further trial.

As to the first suggestion that "it would not be proper for me to sit in the case because I am a law student of the Hon. M. C. Sawyer, counsel for defense," I would say first, I am a law student of Mr. S. but not a student. Secondly—if I am, my preceptor has never taught me to violate my oath, nor do any thing contrary to my convictions, and as proof that I have not done so in any instance, I refer to all of the Stanford bar who have been before me in advocacy of interests adverse to those advocated by the counsel above named.

Those lawyers will all certify that I never manifested any partiality towards any man, in my rulings or decisions.

But according to that suggestion, I am forever disqualified to act as Judge in any case in which my preceptors have professional employment. As to the second suggestion, the same reasoning applies. I am forever disqualified to act as Judge or Juror in a case, wherein the charge is homicide, because my "brother killed a man."

Finally, if our Circuit Judge had a brother who had killed a man, he would be compelled to retire in every trial for murder. Or, if his preceptor should present himself in Court, in the interest of a client, he (the Judge) must "get off the bench," for fear he might unconsciously be influenced to do wrong.

Such is the true effect of the suggestions when the reductio ad absurdum method of reasoning is applied.

I write this only out of deference to those of the community who have observed the organization of the Court, with Esq. Carson and myself on the bench, and then, without public explanation, observed my withdrawal, and felt a natural curiosity to understand the reason therefor. I am alike indifferent to the praise or censure, the confidence or distrust of the curious backbiters who have neither personal nor professional interest in either the prosecution or defense of the case, in respect to which they have gratuitously slandered me, and belittled themselves. M. D. HUGHES.

CANDIDATES.

We are authorized to announce J. H. BRUCE, a candidate to represent the counties of Casey, Boyle, Garrard and Lincoln, in the next Senate of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce Hon. R. W. McFERRAN, of Boyle, a candidate for the State Senate, at the next election from the District composed of the counties of Casey, Garrard, Lincoln and Boyle, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

MRS. DANIEL F. BEATTY, manufacturer and proprietor of the Beatty Piano and Beatty's celebrated Golden Tongue Parlor Organ, Washington, N. J., is certainly a very reasonable and generous man to transact business with. He makes this very fair proposition to any who may favor him by an order as follows: "If the instrument does not prove satisfactory after a trial of five days after receiving it, the purchase money will be refunded upon the return of the instrument, and he will pay freight charges both ways." This is certainly an exceeding generous, and safe manner in which to transact business with one. He warrants his instruments for six years. See his advertisement.

REMEMBER THIS.—Now is the time of the year for Pneumonia, Lung Fever, Coughs, and fatal results of predisposition to Consumption and other Throat and Lung Diseases. BOEHRER'S GERMAN SYRUP has been used in this neighborhood for the past two or three years without a single failure to cure. If you have not used this medicine yourself, go to your Druggists, Bolton & Stagg, and ask them for this wonderful cure among their customers. Two doses will relieve the worst case. If you have no faith in any medicine, just buy a Sample Bottle of Boeher's German Syrup for 10 cents and try it. Regular size Bottle 75 cents. Don't neglect a cough to save 75 cents.

A COW was caught on the pilot of an engine of an incoming train here this week, and carried quite a distance. When the train halted she was still seated on her perch, and on being assisted down, walked off apparently not much the worse for her morning ride.

All parties indebted to me either by note or account, are requested to call and settle at once. Accounts and notes not satisfactorily arranged by the first of April will be found in the hands of G. W. Bobbitt, Constable, or Sautley & Warren, my Attorneys. March 1st, 1877. S. B. MATHENY.

THE BLUE GLASS REMEDY.—Our worthy County Clerk, Mr. John Blain, has, at the suggestion of Dr. Burnside, decided to try the Blue Glass remedy. If there is any virtue in the thing we hope it will be exerted on Mr. Blain, for he has been a sufferer from paralysis long and severely.

JUDGE KELLER.—We were pleased to meet this week, Judge W. E. Keller and his handsome bride, of Harrodsburg, now visiting relatives and friends in Stanford and vicinity. Besides being an excellent preacher, the Judge is socially one of the cleverest men we ever met, and it is to be regretted that he cannot be often induced to come in our midst.

MISS MARY MYERS, of the Stanford Female College, left on Tuesday, for a visit to friends in Georgia. We have frequently been indebted to Miss Mary for contributions to the INTERIOR JOURNAL, and in assuring her of our warm appreciation for past favors, we hope often in the future, to be similarly indebted. We wish for her a safe trip, a happy visit and a speedy return.

As will be seen by reference to another column, our esteemed friend, Mr. S. B. Matheny, has decided to sell out his establishment here, preparatory to removing. During Mr. Matheny's stay in our midst he has by an honorable and straight forward course, and a thorough reliability as a business man won many friends, and will regret his decision. By the way, wonder if he will "go it alone" when he leaves, or—

A YOUNG woman, apparently some twenty-five years of age, was in Stanford this week, a pitiful object of charity. She had walked all the way from Williamsburg, Whitley county, Ky., and was endeavoring to get to relatives in Indiana. Marshal Stagg, with the kindly feeling that even prompts him, succeeded in raising enough money for her pressing necessities, and provided her with comfortable lodging for the night. She started next morning on her weary way, foot and alone.

The case of the Commonwealth vs. Wm. Martin, for the killing of Povall Sappington, three weeks since, occupied the Examining Court, composed of Squires Carson & Lynn, from Tuesday till Thursday of this week. Some forty odd witnesses were examined, at least thirty of whom were examined. A great deal of interest was felt in the case and the desire for punishment of the accused by the brothers of his deceased, led to the employing of Mr. P. W. Hardin, of Harrodsburg, and Mr. G. A. Rochester, of this place, to assist Mr. Bobbitt, in the prosecution. Two days were consumed in the examination of witnesses, and on yesterday morning the argument was commenced by Mr. Rochester, followed by Mr. Warren, then by Mr. Hardin, then by Judge Sautley, and closed by Mr. Bobbitt. All the speeches were good, and to the point, and at the close, at a late hour yesterday afternoon, the Court, after a short consultation, decided that the case is not one of murder in the first degree, but a strong one of manslaughter, and sent him on to the Circuit Court, allowing Martin bail in the sum of $1,500. He gave the required bond with a number of responsible sureties, and is again at liberty.

SMITH.—By Smith, we mean Smith (formerly of his Somerset Republics). This beautiful specimen of the green house, after being disclaimed for incompetency by the Board of Trustees of that paper, staggered into our office the other day, the vile smell of business which enveloping him, and in a very business like way, called for paper to write an advertisement. This "ad" set forth that "on the road between here and Somerset, he had lost a pocket book containing $25 in currency and other valuable papers, and that the same must be left at this office." This was pretty thin, but we listened to a recital of his bright prospects in the Louisville Commercial office, and shuddered at his curses loud and deep on the day that ever carried him to the disagreeable place called Somerset. Then he intimated that he would have to borrow some money from us. When our turn for intimating came, we intimated that we would lend him the $25, but not exactly in that kind of business, and furthermore, that we hadn't had that much money since the war. With a smile of ineffable sweetness, he withdrew, and his next attempt to raise the desired amount was on a young and unsuspecting member of our bar. By his irresistible (?) power of persuasion, he soon won the heart of the attorney, who handed him over the money and Smith, with a twinkle in the right hand corner of the left eye, took the train for Louisville. Since his departure our young attorney looks and longs for the return of his X by mail or express, but we fear that old age will bend him now erect form, and his eyes grow dim with care, before he ever hears of that little bill again.

I DESIRE to sell the Farm, known as the "Tim Pennington" farm. If not sold before County Court day in March, I will rent it on that day. TIM W. HIGGINS, Stanford, Ky., Feb. 2, 1877.

OUR friends across the way, Messrs. Campbell & Miller and Messrs. Severance & Dudenar, are beautifying their business houses with a well applied coat of paint. This, in addition to the nice signs that they have painted recently, gives them a cityified air that is truly refreshing.

TOM HIGGINS, cold, who killed another colored man last July, at Mr. Wm. Ball's, in this county, has surrendered himself to the custody of the Court, and wishes the charge against him investigated. The last Grand Jury failed to indict him, for some reasons, "coupled with the fact that he met fledlike country. His trial is fixed for today.

SELLING OUT.—Wishing to quit business, I offer for sale my entire stock of Groceries and Liquors. Any one desiring to engage in the wholesale and retail grocery and liquor business will find this a first-class opportunity. I have conducted the business successfully for three years, and do not hesitate to claim one of the best advertised stands in Central Kentucky. Terms easy. S. B. MATHENY.

THE Sheriff of Knox county passed up this week, having in charge David Atkins, of Whitley, who it is alleged killed a lady named Porter, who kept a rival ferry on the Cumberland River. He has been confined in the Jefferson jail since the murder, as fears were entertained for his life in the county that the deed was committed. By a change of venue, the case will be tried at Harrodsburg before the Knox Circuit Court.

THE death of Mrs. Etie C. McAllister, wife of Joseph H. McAllister, on last Saturday morning, creates another void in an already bereaved family circle. Young, tender and loving, she has been suddenly snatched from life, leaving a little infant to be reared by other hands than the loving mother's. We sympathize with the young husband and fond relatives, but they sorrow not as those having no hope, for the summons found Mrs. McAllister ready and prepared to meet her God.

IMPROVEMENTS in Stanford.—Mrs. Al. McAllister has nearly completed the handsome addition to her residence. Dr. Bailey's building is proceeding with celerity to completion. Jno. Dudenar is building a residence on Lancaster street. A handsome Lodge for a colored Charitable Society is being built just in rear of the Depot, and there are numerous other houses, either in progress of erection or to be soon commenced. Stanford does not purpose to stand still, but intends to flourish and spread herself "like the Green Bay Tree."

CAPE GIB. C. DICKINSON, for a long time and until recently, City Engineer of Portsmouth, Ohio, passed through our town last week, en route to Whitley county, to re-measure and re-classify the work of a sub-contractor on Mr. Cummings' work, who is unwilling to take the estimate returned by the Company's engineers. Capt. Dickinson is a thoroughly honest, correct and capable engineer, and if he should find that a mistake has been made on the work he goes to examine, you may set it down that the mistake is there. The Captain is upright enough to take the view that it is not altogether the place of an engineer to cheat and swindle a contractor, but to act as an arbitrator between the Company and poor unfortunate that goes by that goes by the name of Contractor.

DIDN'T WANT TO PAY.—Monday morning, Town Marshal Stagg, received a telegram from parties in Rockcastle, requesting the arrest of Ben Goodin, a passenger on the Northern bound train, who it is alleged was leaving the State with intent to defraud his creditors. The telegram further suggested that there might be some trouble in arresting him, as he was accompanied by six or seven friends and sons, who might attempt to prevent his arrest. Acting on this hint, a posse of some ten or twelve of our bravest young men were summoned, and when the train halted the Marshal went in and informed Mr. Goodin that he had been ordered to arrest him. Immediately several of his friends jumped up and thrusting their hands into pocket pockets, would have forced the authority of the law, but the bulldozing effect of a dozen pistols simultaneously drawn by the posse, had a healthy effect on them and Mr. Goodin surrendered without further trouble. It seems that Mr. Goodin, who was possessed of quite a valuable coat property, had sold it for cash, and placing the proceeds in his pockets, was hiding himself to Texas, leaving sundry unpaid bills behind him. After the arrest of Mr. Goodin, he was held by the Sheriff till the Rockcastle parties arrived, when he was brought before Judge Lytle. In the meantime, several of his creditors here, got out attachments against him, but Goodin protested his inability to pay, and was upon the verge of taking the insolvent debtors oath when a motion was made to continue the case till next morning. The Judge decided to do so, and ordered that Goodin be taken to jail till then. This awakened Mr. Goodin to the solemnity of the occasion, and then it was that he began to "shell out" right handsomely. Nearly all the claims against him were satisfied, and he was released, a sadder and a poorer man. The first attempt to arrest Mr. Goodin was made by the Sheriff of Rockcastle, with a posse of six or seven, the train passed Mr. Vernon, but Goodin and his party showed fight by drawing pistols, &c., and the Sheriff's courage began to ebb out of the end of his fingers.

It is not his power to run away. To live to fight another day.

Our boys, though, are made of sterner stuff, and the unfortunate creditors of Mr. Goodin, in a great degree, are under obligations to them for the money obtained from him. If it were that Mr. Goodin was unable from poverty, to pay the claims against him, then we would be the last man to exult in his defeat, but his movements bear on their face the intent to defraud, and as a defrauder, he must certainly appear.

MISS ANNE LOGAN, who has been threatened with pneumonia, is recovering.

Mrs. J. M. McALLISTER, who was recalled from Georgetown by the death of her daughter-in-law, is still in Stanford.

A COLD driving rain set in at 5 o'clock last evening, and the prospect now is, that our protracted spell of good weather is at a close.

A MAN named Shivers, was killed by the breaking of a rope of a derrick on Mr. Flinn's works, whereby his head of rock was thrown upon him. He was familiarly known as "Bismark."

THANKS.—We thank Miss Mesta Simpson, for an invitation to attend the next meeting of the "Perithonian Literary Society" to be held at Mr. J. L. Dawson's, Sr. If both of us can't accept it, you can just make room for the Business Manager, as he will be there sure.

FOR fleetness of foot some of our Stanford men bear off the palm. Last Monday when there was a prospect of a little shooting at the depot, men who were never known to go out of a place before, actually ran with the fleetness of a frightened deer, nor could they be induced to return to the scene till solemnly assured that all was over. A friend informed us that he met one man, hat in hand, fairly flying up the Lancaster pike, too scared and out of breath to communicate the trouble.

JAMES LYNECH, the head of an organized band of thieves at Lebanon, was shot and almost instantly killed by one of the posse who went with the Marshal to arrest him, Lynch, while under the protection of his house, fired several shots at the officers, but finding resistance useless, got out of the house and ran for life. It was while he was running, and after being ordered to halt, that he was shot. A great many stolen articles were found in his house, and several of the inmates were arrested on suspicion.

AN OAKS.—The dull routine of printing room work to our youthful Business Manager and younger compositor, was broken on Wednesday evening, by the visit of two charming little divinities, Misses Maggie Hall and Kate Blain. The boys were overjoyed, and as we witnessed their tender attentions and observed the smile of satisfaction that lit up the countenances of the young ladies as they went into the detail of things, we missed this life here all, is not so much of a "crisis and vacation of spirit" as we make it. We wish for our part, that the ladies would visit us often, for under the prospect of a visit we manage to get the establishment swept out occasionally.

DIED.—Mrs. Etie McAllister, wife of Joseph H. McAllister, and youngest daughter of Richard and Minerva Cobb, at her home, in the 23d year of her age, on Saturday morning last, (February 24th, 1877).

She received her education at the Female College, Hustonsville, Ky., where she formed many acquaintances, and by her social ability, amiable disposition and self-sacrificing spirit, gained the love and admiration of them all. At an early age she yielded to and embraced Christianity, by which she acted and lived, and in which she triumphantly died.

She married quite young; was a true, loving and perfectly devoted wife; when taken away the small, happy family circle was broken; the lack of purity, consolation and comfort was missing; home lost its sweetness, the fireside its cheerfulness, the community a poorer, Christian woman, whose acts of loving kindness to the unfortunate and afflicted are living monuments of her womanly virtues.

Though tender, pure and innocent, she was prematurely called. When her life's voyage was ending; as the veil of futurity was being lifted by the saving hand of Jesus; as she was nearing His harbor of safety, passing out under His care into His custody, and by Him borne away, gazing into the face of her loving and mourning companion and friends without an expression of fear, sorrow or regret for herself, but with a Christian's smile of contentment and satisfaction—meaning, all is well. She now patiently awaits in that Land of Safety for the arrival of her companions and friends.

LAND, STOCK AND CROP ITEMS.
Corn is worth $2 per barrel, delivered in Stanford.

MESSRS. J. H. & S. H. SHANKS sold to B. Bowman 40 yearlings at $33 per head.

Capt. W. G. Welch sold to W. H. Miller, 48 acres of Black Creek land for $50.

We are prepared to put up the nicest jobs of Horse and Jack Bills at short notice, and at the lowest rates.

G. W. Bobbitt, Constable, sold 20 hogs, averaging 90 pounds, at $5 25 each; one grey mare $15, one 3-year old male $78.

At Cythiant, about 250 cattle were offered, best selling at 41 cents. Horses in better demand. A number of mules sold, but at low figures.

In the Cincinnati Stock market, cattle are in good demand, and prices range according to quality, all along from $2 50 to $5 10. Hogs bring from $3 50 to $5 25, and Sheep, common to extra $3 to $5.

From 200 to 250 head of cattle were offered at Lexington, Saturday, mostly sold at 3 to 41 cents; one pair of oxen brought $120; another pair $100; 9 bushel wheat $13 per head. Horses sold from $21 to $58 50.

It is a law now that the licensed owners of stud-horses, jacks and bulls have a lien upon the get of such, for payment of service, for one year after the birth of the same, but this does not apply to purchasers, unless notice is given of such lien.

The highest time in Court days, yet, was at Winchester Monday, when 2000 cattle, it is estimated, were on the market. Best sold readily at 41 to 5 cents, while inferior grades sold at 30. A good many cattle were withheld for better market at Paris, next Monday.

Six hundred and eighty-four head of cattle were offered at the Louisville market on Monday. All sold, but as the demand was dull, not much profit was realized on sales. The following are the quotations: Best shipping cattle $5 to $5 25 (very few on market); Good, $4 50 to $5; first grade butcher, $4 to $5 50; medium $3 50 to $4; fair $3 to $3 50; common $2 50 to $3. The market for hogs was slow, prices ranging from $4 to $5 75. Sheep $4 to $5. Milch cows are in demand, and bring from $25 to $10.

At Springfield, County Court day, W. R. Spears, auctioneer, reports the following sales: 1 large yoke oxen, old, $80 cash; 1 small $81 50; 1 bay horse $14 10; 1 sorrel horse $58 50; 1 bay mare 10 years old $25; 1 3-year old cream colored colt, withdrawn at $70; 1 mare at $20. There was but very little stock on the market, with some inquiry for cattle, but none offered. Attendance on court good.

A farmer now sixty-three years old, tells us that there has been in his recollection, such a fine February for all kinds of farm work as the one just past. There has not been a single day since the 25th of January but what plowing could be done, and all kinds of seasonable farm work successfully prosecuted. Stock, he says, looks better than in ever saw them at this time of the year, and the wheat crop gives evidence of a full yield. It is also encouraging to hear from him that there is a good show for peaches and other fruit.

LANCASTER COURT DAY.—Col. W. S. Elkin, auctioneer, reports about 200 cattle on the market, about 150 of which were sold or changed hands. The following sales were made: 1 yoke cattle $14 50; 1 do., $35 30; 1 do., $81 60; 1 do., $89 50; and 1 do., $67 80; 15 cattle averaging 1300, brought $3 50 per hundred weight; 5 head 3-year old scrub cattle $30 per head; 11 2-year olds $15; 7 common calves $10 per head; 12 2-year olds $19; 3 3-year olds $36 30; 4 cattle $20; 26 cattle $21 30; 1 yoke cattle $61 75; 1 do., $140. Horses sold low.
